- If that doesn't help, try restarting the application: From the main menu select 'Quii' (Or press the red key on the telephone), then re-start the check if the 'username' and 'password' fields are filled in, and correct them if - On this Profile screen, check if the text below 'state' says 'logged in.' If not, Then from the 'Options' menu, select 'Profile' .3G' should be present. If there is nothing there, check the profile settings: In the top left corner of the screen, a small icon with two arrows and the text το check the network connectivity:

Tip: always slide the telephone open to improve GPS reception. The antenna is underneath the keyboard.

- The numbers below 'lon' and 'lat' may jump around a bit - that's OK. - The GPS accuracy should be around 25m. - The GPS status should say 'Fix OK' From the 'Options' menu, select 'GPS' - Go to the main menu, and select 'Settings' You can check the GPS signal from within the application: To check the GPS signal:

your Journey. When the blue 'Scenes' screen shows up, select your round to continue on get there), re-start the application by pressing on of the left or right softkeys (the blue keys right below the screen - where it says '7scenes') From the main screen of the telephone (press the red button a few times to o restart the application:

If all seems OK, try restarting the application (see below). Check the GPS signal (see below). Try walking about a bit. GPS accuracy in the city is sometimes reduced. I'm on top of a Place, but nothing happens! Try moving away from large buildings, and into a more open space. Careful with traffic!

Try moving away from large buildings, and into a more open space. Careful with traffic! Check the GPS signal (see below) The location indicator doesn't move!

If the screen says 'Loading maps', but the progress indicator doesn't move after a few seconds, there may be a network problem. See below how to accurate position yet. This may take a few minutes. If the screen says 'Waiting for satellites', then the GPS doesn't have an qou, t see suy maps!

No problem - just restart the application to continue your journey - see i ue application la gone:

Troubleshooting the 7scenes mobile application implications for any urban design plan or evolution. are provided if it's a commercial space? There are socio-economic What sorts of activities take place here? What kinds of goods or services location. Who are the users or visitors? How are the interiors configured? Observe not only the location/structure itself, but also the contents of the community. How do they together form an organic microcosm? But it could have a life of its own: life breathed into it by the users and the A building/structure/place might be constructed with inorganic materials. urban areas in Hong Kong?

• Are there unique characteristics found on this route as opposed to other immediate environment? structures and space. How does this place relate to the neighborhood and Try to look at the building/structure/place in relation to the surrounding

stnid bns aqiT

its surroundings; take photographs looking for "Zeitgeist". Langham Place location to Yau Ma Tei or other areas. Investigate this place and were pushed to close. Gentrification also pushed the sex trade at the previous pike immediately outside the mail and some of the older business and shops and the streets are busy as ever. However there has been a significant rent the shops and stalls outside of Langham Place keep doing brisk business snopping mall in Mong Kok. But fully complete. It is the only large city blocks and took 2 decades to brilling down old buildings on several over 10 stories of shopping space, of a 5-star hotel, office towers and developers, it was a massive project Kok by the government and private urban redevelopment project in Mong Langham Place is so far the biggest photographs looking for "Zeitgeist, ruis biace and its surroundings; take to the average consumer, investigate trequented by tradesmen as opposed timber and general hardware. They are plumbing supplies, metal welding,

Road carry heavier goods such as

as keciamation street and Canton further from Nathan Road, such

Specialty stores along the back streets

Гапдћат Ріасе

Adaptability".

Reclamation Street

surroundings; take photographs looking for "Zeitgeist, Adaptability". harbour, Investigate this place and its in Wanchai on the opposite side of the Most of the shops here run branches fixtures to wall papers and lighting. decoration supplies, from floor and wall tiles, bathroom and kitchen international building and home Place is exclusive territory for Portland Street Just before Langnam

Portland Street

тог "Нагтопу, Ніегагсћу".

traditions. Investigate this place and its surroundings; take photographs looking generations are clueless about these sast-disappearing cultures. The newer like a living museum and a window to shops and the merchandise here are professional kitchen utensils. The embroidery/wedding supplies and Street specialize in traditional Chinese the Yaumatei stretch of Shanghai shophouses. Many of the shops along

There are relatively few new buildings which highlights the complex from its vernacular surroundings; in contrasting rouge, investigate this place and its residential towers 8 Waterloo Road situates the high-rise reddish cottage appearance. Kight above it in Flemish bond that give it an English Chinese tiled roof and red brick walls small two-storey structure with a Red Brick House. The building is a bepartment commonly known as the pumping station of Water Supplies Just around the corner is the former turn of the millennium but has luckily escaped the bulldozer and is currently slated for remodeling into a centre for Chinese Opera. Investigate this place and its surroundings; take photographs looking for "Honesty, Re-use". and 90s when it became a cinema showing porno films. It closed down at the once the largest theatre in Kowloon. The Theatre fell into disrepair in the 1980s tavorite location for action films. The adjacent 80 year-old Yaumater Theatre was maze-like market consists of rows of tiny connecting warehouses and is a congested and blocked by trucks and trolleys in the middle of the night. The outside of the market are often or 7am to select and buy. The streets compensation of James at the served free treets supermarkets, many smaller retailers interesting public facility along Waterloo Road. Other than the chain The Wholesale Fruit Market is another

Fruit Market + Yaumatei Theatre

0. Prepare: bring your digital camera.

1. Team up: create a team of 3.

2. When playing with a phone: get 7scenes running on a GPS phone (visit www.7scenes.com). Use this booklet on your way.

3. Navigate: start navigating from location to location.

4. Learn: at each location discuss the available info about the place.

5. Investigate: investigate the location and its lings based on the linked design principle(s) Does this (set of) principle(s) not work for you? Pick another. Check out this booklet for explanations.

7. Photograph: Discuss which principle(s) fit(s) best and take photos that best illustrate this - as a team.

on your phone or email them (phone or web) to: eye99larger@photos.flickr.com (subject: location, design principle; body: comments)

9. Comment: let us know your thoughts when you took the photos, leave all of your comments on our flickr page (flickr.com/photos/re-architect) and discuss your ideas with other players.

Design principles

Use the principles below to look at buildings or spaces from a specific point-of-view. Some are already linked to locations on the route, but if you see new relationships, feel free to express this with photos and upload them with your comments to the website.

Every age has a certain spirit or set of shared attitudes that should be utilised when designing.

Tradition

A building should be designed so the public will appreciate a structure's timeless beauty and understand immediately how to use a given building.

A building should be designed in accordance with the particular characteristics of a specific place. Aiming for visual harmony between a building and its surroundings and a connection between past and present forms of a building.

Emphasis on balance by bilateral symmetry and articulation (elements in a building that are jointed

Today the little park known as Yung Shue Tau in front of Tin Hau Temple has become a public square where the elderly from the neighbourhood play chess throughout the day and practice tai chi in the morning.

For decades the sidewalk outside of the square toroughnout the Temple Street is converted every together with the Temple Street is converted every evening into a night market of fortune-tellers, street evening into a night market of fortune-tellers, street evening into a night market of tortune-tellers, street inges and makeshift stalls selling cheap souvenirs and sundries.

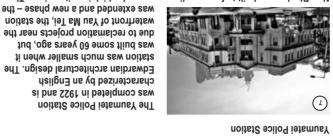

The stalls are surface to the street of this place and its surroundings; take photographs looking for nony, Social, Sustainability." place and its surroundings; take photographs looking for "Harmony, Social". in front of the cinema in their cultural pursuits or daily activities. Investigate this residents who share the public space together film enthusiasts and local residential development, pulling amongst government-subsidized one roof. The Cinematheque is located cate, bookstore and disc store under cinephiles one-stop service of cinema the Broadway Cinematheque, offering A few steps away from the market lies photographs looking for "Iradition". and Monuments Office. Investigate this place and its surroundings; take Police Station has been classified as a historical building by the Antiquities Sunlight coming through the windows is really quite magnificent. Yaumatei decorated with arch-shaped lintels fitted with panes of artistically carved glass ue pnilqiud is abacions and linked up by long corridors and wooden doors offices, with the third floor designated as barracks for women police officers. three-storey Old Block, painted white and light blue, is composed mainly of New Block - was built to form a police compound, which is quite unique. The et i – sseyd wau e pue papuata sew station was much smaller when it Edwardian architectural design. The characterized by an English was completed in 1922 and is The Yaumatei Police Station looking for "Enclosure".

Broadway Cinematheque

Jade Market

Sustainability". encroundings; take photographs looking for "Honesty, Simplicity, had been completed and in use for some years. Investigate this place and its after the original building construction nignway τίγονεr built right through it particularly striking with a 2-lane functional government building, is The Carpark structure, itself a houses more than 750 parking spaces. Carpark racing Shanghai Street, which from the 8-storey Yaumatei Public remnants can be round at most angles Views of the surrounding residential

Yaumatei Carpark

Hierarchy

The hierarchy of buildings is based on their strict placement in a property/complex. Buildings with doors facing the front of the property are considered more important than those facing the sides. Buildings facing away from the front are the least important. Buildings in the rear and more private parts of the property are held in higher esteem.

rroundings; take photographs looking for "Tradition, Feng Shui, Balance, prizontal emphasis".

demonstration of early Szeto's work, with an immense interest of using with an immense interest of using concrete as a sculptural material, interplay of Chinese and Western motifs, and a playful arrangement of spatial volumes. Architectural works by the early modern Chinese architects are often overlooked in Hong Kong. For the same reason many were demolished in the last two decades. The Methodist Church is fortunate to be left intact in the city, Investigate this place and its surroundings; take photographs looking for "Tradition".

facades adapted neoclassical facades in subtropical climate. Investigate this place and its surroundings; take photographs looking for "Tradition, Balance".

Methodist Church

the Yaumatei Theatre in 1925. Investigate this place and its in 1913, the Police Station in 1922 and front of the temple was the centre of action. Construction of several public facilities still standing further consolidated the status of the area,

Tin Hau Temple on Temple Street (1840s, rebuilt 1870) and the market in photographer, was among the first batch of Guangdong architects who were educated abroad and returned for the post-war building of Hong Kong, The Methodist Church is an demonstration of early Szeto's work educated first as an engineer but also a passionate painter and of Chinese University Hong Kong and Statue Square in Central). Szeto Wai,

Road was built in the 1950s by Szeto

Wai (who was known for the pla architects adapted neoclassical verandah in the front is a typical brickwork on the two sides. The its main elevation is featured by its lonic columns in the centre and British beautiful colonial buildings on the Kowloon Peninsula. Built in the 1930s, owloon Magistracy on nee Road is one of the most

Constructing buildings or building complexes that take up an entire property but encloses open spaces within itself. These enclosed spaces come in two forms: the open courtyard and the "sky well" (a hole in the roof that allows sunshine to get in, to all levels in the house)

Feng Shui

Harmony through careful placement of objects. Screen walls face the main entrance of the house, which stems from the belief that evil things travel on straight lines. The windowless back of the structure faces the north, where the wind is coldest in the winter. Ponds, pools, wells, and other water sources are usually built into the structure.

Horizontal emphasis

The emphasis on the horizontal axis, in particular the construction of a heavy platform and a large roof that floats over this base, with the vertical walls not as well emphasized. Stressing the visual impact of the width of Mong Kok's characteristic private buildings have mixed commercial/residential getting saturated with standardized high-rise public housing estates, most of flowers to all other everyday needs, each with its designated streets. Instead of women's wear, sneakers, pet fish and

THE place for shopping – from advent of malls in Hong Kong it was along the backstreets. Before the ubiquitous workshops and trades industrial facilities apart from the residential and commercial with fewer tourists day and night. It is mainly Kong, crowded with locals and Mong Kok is the busiest area in Hong

Ma Tei had kept its status as the most populous district in Kowloon as well as a the 1870s. Several reclamations followed and even after the plague in 1894 Yau the Kowloon peninsula. Shanghai Street was a major thoroughfare first built in Yau Ma Tei was one of the major Chinese settlements when the British occupied

Yau Ma Tei & Mong Kok

A structure shall display its "true" purpose and not be decorative. A building form shall be shaped on the basis of its intended function, often known as "form follows function". Materials should be used and selected on the bases of their properties, and that the characteristics of a material should influence the form it is used for.

Simple forms, i.e. aesthetics without considerable ornaments, simple geometry, smooth surfaces etc., represents forms which are considered as "real" art.

Nature can provide inspiration, functional clues and aesthetic forms that should be used as a basis for designs characterized by free-flowing curves, asymmetrical lines and expressive forms. "Form follows

Emphasis on creating a building or complex designed for social interaction and awareness.

Re-use & Modification

Existing buildings can be continuously used through

Sustainability

A sustainable and/or environmentally friendly building approach is beneficial to users, society and future generations.

Adaptability

Design purpose and values should be able to change and respond to social, economic and community needs. Users and residents should be able to create as much as designers, planners and architects.

to redesign, make fundamental design changes.

Re-architect is a game on urban design, play and transformation. The game takes you on a photographic treasure hunt along the architectural past, present and future of the city. Along your journey you investigate locations and their surroundings, are asked to respond to their design principles and photograph the city from different architectural perspectives.

www.re-architect.org

Re-architect is played during the Business of Design Week '08 in Hong Kong and was created by Waag Society and 7scenes in collaboration with the Hong Kong Design Instititute, Polytechnic University Hong Kong and NAi.

Individually players will learn more on how they

Re-architect can both be played hi-tech, with GPS-positions and lo-fi using this hard-copy map.

enabled phones triggering game content by player's

Re-architect is also very much a discussion platform resident or visitor responding to public space. What asking you to comment on the city's changes not only from a architect's perspective but also as a kind of changes would you make in the city?

What would you re-architect?

Sponsored by PCCW mobile.

map of the city together.

perceive the city, collectively all players create a new

